

Where to Turn

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

Dear Alaskans,

Where To Turn has been published in print for almost two decades by the Governor's Council on Disabilities and Special Education. Every effort has been made for this booklet to be inclusive and we apologize to any groups, organizations, or agencies that may have been inadvertently omitted. Please bring any omissions or corrections to our attention by calling our office at (907) 269-8990 or toll free at (888) 269-8990 or go online to <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/gcdse> to update or e-mail staff.

Whether you use the print or the online version of Where to Turn, we hope you will use the many resources Alaska has to explore the possibilities of what is available for people who experience disabilities. I urge you to keep exploring, asking questions and getting involved in local efforts to improve the services for people with disabilities.

Sincerely,

Stacey Messerschmidt
Council Chair

How to Use Where To Turn

Information is organized in a manner similar to that found in a phone book. The white pages section is an alphabetical listing of agencies that provide services throughout the state.

In the yellow page section, the agencies are categorized by the type of service they provide. The agency contact information can then be found in the white pages section.

An online version of Where To Turn is available at <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/gcdse>. This site will contain the most recent, updated information. Agencies wishing to update their information may do so online at any time at this site. Information can be retrieved by service category or zip code at the web version of Where To Turn.

Where to Turn lists many agencies that provide services to people throughout the state of Alaska, yet they may be located in Anchorage or Juneau or another community. We do not list every regional or rural location of every statewide organization, but we suggest you contact the nearest office and ask if there is one closer to you.

Another statewide resource is Alaska 211 - 211 is an easy to remember phone number with supporting online web site that connects individuals with resources in their community 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. For Information and Referral or Assistance, dial 211 or 1-800-478-2221 or at the following online address: www.Alaska211.org

If you are looking for a national organization such as the Easter Seals Foundation you can call 800-555-1212 and request a national toll free number, you can call a national Health Information Resource Database at 631-585-0290 or on the web you can go to www.health.gov and find the 2007 toll free numbers for health information by topic.

Service Descriptions

Adult Day Services are programs that provide participants with opportunities to interact with others, usually in a community center or facility. Staff lead various activities such as music programs and support groups. Transportation is often provided.

Advocacy represents the strategies devised, actions taken and solutions proposed to influence decision-making at the local & state level to create positive change for people and their environment. Many organizations that provide services also advocate for change.

Assistive Technology includes tools people may need in order to learn, work, play, and participate in community life safely and independently. Examples of assistive technologies include non-mechanical tools to high-tech text-to-speech screen readers, head pointing devices, voice recognition software and screen magnification software.

Case Management is the assistance in coordinating and providing access to medical, social, educational and other services. This service links people with complex personal circumstances to appropriate services and ensures coordination of services.

Childcare Services means individual or group care and supervision of children in a stimulating environment that appropriately supports their development. Inclusive child care allows all children to learn together in an atmosphere that supports and nurtures the individual strengths of each child, and where each child participates in the daily routines and activities.

Chore Services refers to activities that a person needs help in getting done (e.g., cleaning, washing walls, tacking down rugs or tiles, moving furniture, shoveling snow in order to provide safe entrance and exit to a building, shopping or food preparation). The goal of chore services is to maintain a clean, sanitary and safe environment for the person receiving the services.

Educational Services include public school districts in Alaska and other teaching programs such as Head Start.

Emergency/Crises services may help individuals or families in a difficult time when assistance is needed urgently.

Employment is any service that assists with the working or vocational needs of an individual. Supported Employment is help finding and keeping a job at a work site where people without disabilities are employed. Supported employment may include subsistence activities or self-employment.

Environmental Accessibility Services are adaptations to an individual's workplace or home that are necessary to ensure his or her health, welfare and safety. This may include wheelchair ramps, grab bars, railings or other similar adaptations.

Family Support Services are designed to keep the family together. These services may include consumer information workshops, in-home supports, family therapy, parenting training, crisis services, and respite care.

Financial Assistance helps needy aged, blind or people with disabilities to attain self-support or self-care. Financial or Public Assistance can include child care, medical assistance, food stamps, heating assistance, Medicaid, Adult Public Assistance, Social Security, and other resources.

Guardianship is the process of legally taking away rights from a person who lacks the ability to make decisions. The person who is appointed by a court to make those decisions is called a "guardian" and the person who has a guardian is called a "ward." "Conservatorship" is another form of guardianship that usually involves decisions about money and property.

Housing refers to the places that people live and the agencies that may assist people with disabilities who may have concerns about access to the housing of their choice.

Independent Living and Residential Services include a range of services that support a person's self-determination in living arrangements of their choice. Residential services could include assistance in activities of daily living such as dressing, eating and bathing.

Infant and Early Childhood Services describe a variety of settings and services for children from birth to approximately five years old. The Early Intervention/Infant Learning Program serves infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families with in-home services that lead to improved developmental and social skills.

Information/Referral describes hotlines, help lines and clearinghouses that help connect people with services and information.

Legal and Protective Services are provided by lawyers or advocates who understand the details of laws that protect people with disabilities such as in the public education system (IDEA) or with matters such as employment and housing (ADA). The purpose of legal and protective services is to protect the legal, civil and human rights of people with mental or physical disabilities.

Medical and Health Services include some clinics or health care providers that specialize in treating illnesses and managing long-term or chronic health conditions.

Mental Health Services include diagnostic, treatment and preventive care that helps improve how persons with mental illness feel both physically and emotionally as well as how they interact with other persons. Services may include beneficial activities which aim to overcome issues that adversely affect socialization, learning, or development.

Personal Care Assistance is assistance for an individual with a disability to accomplish his or her daily living activities. The Personal Care Assistant may be referred to as a Personal Assistant” or “caregiver, “whether the care is being provided by a spouse, parent, friend, or hired employee. Medicaid cannot reimburse spouses or parents of a minor child for these services.

Recreational Services include sports and therapeutic recreation opportunities for those with disabilities so that everyone, regardless of physical ability, has an equal chance at recreational opportunities. They help with improved mobility, increased self-confidence, and development of specific skills.

Residential/Supported Living refers to in-home, group homes or other living situations that help people live as independently as possible. Supported living services are provided in an individual's home for those who are 18 or older.

Respite Services offer relief to caregivers from the everyday stress of caring for an individual who experiences a disability. Respite care cannot be used for regular child care or adult day care except for short-term emergency situations. Respite cannot be used to allow the caregiver to work outside the home.

Specialized Medical Equipment and Supplies are devices, controls or appliances that enable individuals to increase their ability to perform daily activities or to understand, communicate with people and/or control the environment in which they live.

Therapies are interventions that address a problem that may be personal, social, behavioral, mental or related to substance abuse. It helps maintain or improve effective functioning of an individual. Examples include speech, occupational or physical therapies.

Transition Services are a coordinated set of activities for a person designed within an outcome oriented process that promotes movement from one setting or service to another. Examples include moving from early intervention/infant learning program to preschool; moving to a new kindergarten program or public school; to middle/high school; and postsecondary education, vocational training, integrated employment (including supported employment), continuing and adult education, adult services, independent living, or community participation.

Transportation Services help people participate in community services and resources. Transportation can be provided by public buses, accessible, door-to-door vans, taxi service or and/or other modes suitable for snow or icy conditions.

About the Governor's Council on Disabilities & Special Education

The Council is composed of 28 members appointed by the Governor. Appointments are made on a revolving basis by an application process. You can see current membership by going to our web site at <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/gcdse>.

The Council uses planning, capacity building, systems change, and advocacy to create change for people with disabilities. Consistent with our State Plan we work towards systems change in areas including housing, employment, early intervention, special education, lifelong learning, independent living and inclusion in the community.

The Council provides a constructive process that connects the public with policymakers, to ensure the thoughtful development of an efficient and seamless service delivery system that meets the needs of individuals with disabilities across the life span.

The Council serves a variety of federal and state roles, combining the expertise and experience of many stakeholders throughout the state into one unique Council:

State Council on Development Disabilities

Under the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act, the Council serves as the State Council on Developmental Disabilities; in Alaska the Council is also responsible for interdepartmental planning and coordination of services to persons with disabilities. The Council delegates the day-to-day work to the Developmental Disabilities Committee (DD).

Interagency Coordinating Council (ICC) for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities

Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, the Council serves as the Interagency Coordinating Council for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities which advises and assists Alaska's statewide Early Intervention/Infant Learning Program. The day-to-day functions of the ICC are delegated to the Early Intervention Committee (EIC).

Special Education Advisory Panel (SEAP)

Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, the Council also serves as Alaska's Special Education Advisory Panel which advises and assists Alaska's statewide Special Education program administered through the Department of Education & Early Development. The day-to-day functions of the Special Education Advisory Panel (SEAP) are delegated to the Education Committee (Ed Committee).

Governing Body of the Special Education Service Agency (SESA)

Members of the Council act as the governing board for the Special Education Services Agency, which supports the effective education of students with low incidence disabilities throughout Alaska. For more information you can visit their web site at: <http://www.sesa.org/>

The Alaska Mental Health Trust Authority

The Council reports on the status and needs of individuals with developmental disabilities and their families and makes recommendations for funding on their behalf. For more information you can visit their web site at: www.mhtrust.org/

Connecting the Public with Policymakers

Members of the Legislative Committee follow the actions of the Legislature, meeting at least once a month through statewide teleconference. The Legislative Committee organizes support or opposition for proposed legislation that may impact that lives of families and individuals experiencing disabilities. The Council delegates this role to the Legislative Committee (LC).

Where to Turn Online Service Directory

Located on the GCDSE web site: <http://www.hss.state.ak.us/gcdse/>

To help users with common daily work tasks the online version of Where to Turn is equipped with a number of advanced features.

User Features:

- Database search capability
- Bulk emailing
- Export to MS Excel
- Mailing Labels with MS Word
- MS Outlook - Add organizations to your "Contacts"

Administrative Features (for users):

- Add new organizations to the Where to Turn system
- Update organizational information online

User Features:

In addition to the user features listed above, users can immediately search

- Alaska Yellow Pages
- Google for specific organizations with a single mouse click

How to Search the Where to Turn Online Service Directory

There are four basic methods that can be used to search Where to Turn

1. Basic Search

A basic search will return any organization that matches any of the words or phrases searched for. For instance if you conduct a search for “family support”, the online Where to Turn will return any organizations that contain “family” or “support” in the organizations name, or the organizations community. If you conducted a basic search for “family sitka” the system would return all organizations that contained the words “family” or “sitka” in the organizations name, or community.

2. Exact phrase match search

The exact phrase match search is designed to give users a narrower set of search results. For instance if you did an exact phrase match search for “family support”, only those programs that had the phrase “family support” in the organization name or community would be returned in the search results.

3. Services by zip code

The search by zip code allows users to quickly find all organizations that are located within a specific zip code. This technique is fairly straightforward. Simply supply the five-digit zip code and click on the Search button.

4. Search by service category

This search method allows users to view all organizations that offer specific categories of services. To view the list of services simply select “Browse service category”, and then click on one of the category titles to view all organizations that are recorded as providing the respective service.

Information Contained in the Where to Turn Online Service Directory

The following organizational data fields are contained in the Where to Turn database.

- Organization name
- Organization sub-name
- Address
- City
- State
- Zip code
- Phone
- Fax
- Toll free phone
- TDD
- Email
- Web site
- Description

Additionally, service categories and date of last information update is recorded for each organization contained in the Where to Turn database.

Bulk emailing

One of the features of the online Where to Turn system is bulk emailing. This feature will allow the user to email all of the organizations that appear in the search results. Of course only those organizations that have a valid email address will be included in your list.

To send a bulk email simply follow these steps:

1. Perform a search for organizations

2. Click on the button found at the top of the search results
 3. Modify the new message, and click the “Send” button

After clicking the email button an email message should appear with the organizational email addresses appearing in the “To...” line. You can manually remove any of the email addresses, or add any additional email addresses. When you are done writing your message simply send the email, and it should be delivered to all those agencies with a valid email address in the Where to Turn system.

Exporting to MS Excel

Another useful feature found in the online Where to Turn is the ability to export directly to MS Excel.

To export organization information to MS Excel simply follow these steps:

1. Perform a search for organizations.
2. Click on the button found at the top of the search results.
3. Save the new MS Excel document following the steps outlined below.

After clicking on the Excel button you should see a new Internet Explorer window open that contains the Excel spreadsheet. To save this Excel document simply click on File (located on your menu bar), then choose “Save As...”.

After clicking “Save As...” navigate to the directory you wish to save the file to, and then select the type of file you would like to save the document as. The default is set to save the document as an HTML document, so you will need to select “Microsoft Excel Workbook (*.xls)” if you wish to save it as an Excel spreadsheet.

Once you have selected the file type, give the Excel spreadsheet a name, and click the Save button. Congratulations! You’ve exported the Where to Turn data into an Excel spreadsheet.

Mailing Labels with MS Word

Generating mailing labels with MS Word is a breeze using Where to Turn online. Simply click the Mailing Labels button, choose the type of Avery label you wish to print the labels on and click the “Generate Labels” button.

To create mailing labels with MS Word simply follow these steps:

1. Perform a search for organizations.
2. Click on the button found at the top of the search results.
3. Select the Avery label # you wish to use for formatting your labels.
4. Print the mailing labels, or save the document for future printing.

After clicking the Mailing Labels button you will see the drop down list for the various Avery label options.

You should see a new Internet Explorer window open with the mailing information for all the organizations in your search results formatted and ready to be printed on your specified Avery label sheets.

MS Outlook - Add organizations to your “Contacts”

Where to Turn online allows users to quickly add organizations to their MS Outlook Contacts list simply by clicking the VCard button.

To create mailing labels with MS Word simply follow these steps:

1. Perform a search for organizations.
2. Click on the button found at the top of the program’s information.
3. Click on the “save and close” button.

Print the mailing labels, or save the document for future printing.

All of the pertinent organizational information will appear in the Contact window shown above. When you are satisfied with the information simply click the Save and Close button. Congratulations! You have successfully saved this organization to your Outlook Contact list.

Administrative Features (for users):

There are two features available on the online Where to Turn that allow users to help in the maintenance of organizational information: Adding new organizations, updating information for existing organizations.

Add new organizations to the Where to Turn system

If users of the Where to Turn online system find that there are organizations that should be in Where to Turn but are not, there is an easy way to add these organizations.

Follow these steps to add an organization to Where to Turn

1. Conduct a search for anything.
2. Click the “Add a new organization” link at the bottom of the search results.
3. Click the “Add a new organization” link at the bottom of the search results.
4. Supply the organizational information on the pop-up page.
5. Click the “Submit organization information” button.

When a search is performed, near the bottom of the screen users will see a link that will allow them to add new organizations.

After the user clicks this link an Internet Explorer window will pop up that will allow them to add the information for a new organization.

 NOTE - If a new window does not open when you click the link, check to make sure that you have disabled any “pop-up blockers” that may be installed on your computer.

After the user has filled out all of the information available for the organization click the “Submit organization information” button, found at the bottom of the page.

When the new organization information has been submitted it is then held in “review” status until a Where to Turn administrator has reviewed and verified the submitted information. Once the administrator approves the new organization it is then available to the public when searches are conducted.

Update organizational information online

In addition to adding new organizations to Where to Turn, users may also update existing organizational information.

Follow these steps to update an organization in Where to Turn

1. Conduct a search for the organization.
2. Click the “Update” link at the bottom of the programs information.
3. Supply the organizational information on the pop-up page.
4. Click the “Submit information update request” button.

To update existing organizational information simply click on the Update link.

When the user clicks this link a new Internet Explorer window will open.

NOTE - Again, if a window does not pop open when you click the link, make sure that you disable any “pop-up blockers” that you may have installed on your system.

After the user has updated the organizational information they need to click the “Submit information update request” button found at the bottom of the page.

After the user has submitted an update this request will be held for review by the Where to Turn administrator. Once this updated information has been approved by the administrator the information then becomes active and will be available to the public when they are searching Where to Turn.
